

Event Review- Hike 10 November 2022

With cool temperatures and brisk winds, six hardy members- James, Olwen, Brent, Maureen, Dennis, and Judy- set off on an uncommon Thursday afternoon hike around the virtually vacant Wheat City Golf Course. Walking on the south side of the CP tracks, the group soon encountered a pair of grazing deer and later saw ingenious treehouse art on the western end of this out-of-the-way trail. After about twenty minutes, the group connected to the golf course grounds and then followed the dike along the edge of the Assiniboine River. Along the way, we noticed a dying river oxbow, overlooked Turtle Crossing Campground, and had a unique view of the condo development adjacent to the first tee off.

After about an hour, we were back at the start point and the hike ended with a well-deserved hot beverage at the nearby Eagles Nest restaurant.
